About me

My Name Is Aleksey Klimenko. I am a fourth year student at The Bonch-Bruевич Saint Petersburg State University of Telecommunications. With IT and programming i met in high school. My first programming language is C++. On it, I wrote typical tasks for logic and also took a course on algorithms and data structures. The next stop is Java, Collections, Generics, OOP, etc.

Now I am developing applications in React and sites in native HTML, JS and CSS. I write the backend myself in Node.js or use ready open-source API.

- I have experience with databases Oracle and PostgreSQL.
- I also like to completing tasks on Codewars.
- I know basic principles in Webpack and Gulp.
- I have multiple Cisco Academy certifications in cybersecurity and internet protocols.
- At University, I participated in a course project on writing a microservice using ASP.NET, Entity Framework and Blazor Webassembly.

I like to constantly learn something new and be in trend, this is one of main reasons why i get into IT.
I have been playing sports since childhood, so i am very organized and purposefull.
